

Helen Harris

The closure of the granite quarries.

Why did the quarries start winding down on Dartmoor.

Well partly because of competition elsewhere, as I mentioned there were other quarries over on the western side of the moor, they were working at high pitch and perhaps the particular demands at the time decreased but also there was considerable competition from Cornwall, granite quarries in Cornwall.