

Tom Soby

Remains of glass from the glassworks.

And at the end of the day when they were glass blowing, and if they had too much glass, they would just let it cool and you'd have big boulders of glass, and Mike's got one in his conservatory the size of a football and you used to pick it up here, and when, in the 1960s/'70s, when they cleared up the area, tidied the area, put the new roadway in, they just bulldozed tons and tons and tons of all this glass that was lying around, and it's there under the roadway now, and in the wall you'll find pieces of broken glass.