

Alison Kohler

Easy access to the forest and river.

Bellever here is a really accessible space, isn't it?

Yes, you can literally park very close to a walk that has been designed specifically for people with special needs, so that means if you've got a wheelchair or if you've got crutches or if you've got a buggy with young children in you can actually get right down to the river and walk along the river towards the bridge at Bellever, which I find fantastic, and I remember bringing a group of people out here when we were first designing that path and one of them saying to me, 'I have never been this close to a tree', and that was somebody in a wheelchair, so it's just a fantastic experience for those people that don't normally have the chance to get that close to nature.