Repair of the bridge in the 1970s.

The most recent repair took place in the mid 1970s, Eric Blatchford who worked for the [Dartmoor] National Park [Authority], he took a photograph of a student on the bridge and when he had his photographs developed he saw that something wasn't quite right, and he came back and had a closer look and found that in fact it was in a pretty precarious state, and found it was in danger of collapse.
