

Helen Harris

Power source.

They had a source of power, the first source that they had was from the Cherrybrook, which flows through the area, that wasn't quite sufficient so they brought a leat from the East Dart across from Archerton and this flowed through the large incorporating buildings and powered a waterwheel in the centre of the building and then flowed on, via a leat, to the next building.