

Gary Cox

The DNPA Information Centre.

What are the sorts of information can be found at the Information Centre?

Well there's a very wide range of leaflets, some of which are produced by the National Park [Authority] on specific subjects like birds and archaeology, there's a very large map in the centre which helps us direct people with the walks and there is also an interactive computer with a mapping system on that which we can show people. The Dartmoor Visitor is a particular welcome aid for us who work in the Centre, it's an information paper which lists guided walks and events that occur in the National Park throughout the year.