

Rob Steemson

The early Information Service.

Do you remember when the Information Centre was built in Postbridge?

I remember when I first started there was a very small information caravan stuck down in the bottom of the car park and that was an information centre, and that was it, the Information Centre as it is now was a shed and a store and there was a toilet block over the other side of the car park.