

Annie Smerdon

Community life in Postbridge.

What's Postbridge like as a village to live in?

We're very lucky we've got a very good community, even people that move into the village are game to join in and they all take part. I'm now assistant Church Warden and for flower arranging I go round and raid a few peoples gardens if I need some flowers for Harvest Festival or different things and last Harvest Festival we just asked and people give so much the Church was really nice, from my childhood it always used to be full when we used to do things, but yes, it was really nice last year, so yes, we're really lucky, good community – yeah, we've got the local pantomime group which is very popular and the tickets sell out within a week, that's usually the middle to end of January, and the atmosphere there's very good.