Current status of the church.

I'm here as the Anglican minister but we share a partnership, a local ecumenical partnership with the Methodists in the Methodist church because St Michael's Church, which everybody knows and sees was actually made redundant in 1994, due to the fact that it needed major, major repairs and there just weren't the resources of the people to actually respond to that need. Thankfully in 1998 it was taken over by the Churches Conservation Trust and they have been, since that time, working on resorting it, its future at this time is unknown but there are plans to try and find an alternative use for it.
