

Ross Greig

The Duchy Square development.

The idea being is that local artists, or people from around the area would rent the workshops and studios to display their work, they would also hopefully be selling their work in the gallery, in the sales gallery. The people that we're looking to attract will be local arts and crafts, whether they be photographers, or watercolour artists, or weavers, or basket makers, or walking stick makers, you know, there's a whole range of arts and crafts that happen already on Dartmoor but maybe they don't necessarily have a common showpiece where they can all come together and work and share their experiences. Plus hopefully there will be some employment, extra employment and we would, I hope, be looking to the local community to provide that employment, plus with the space available, and as I said, at the reasonable rates of rent, that it would encourage people to maybe want to try to start their own business.