

Freddie Stoye

Description of the school.

It was solid granite, all the walls were solid granite, 18 inch granite blocks, and wooden parquet floors in the school, central heating, radiators throughout the school, big boilers down below. He used to take all the various subjects that he possibly could in there, English of course and religious knowledge and drawing, painting, art then, put it that way, handicraft.