

Margaret Norrish

Bedroom furniture during the 1930s.

Well Grandma had a big brass bed in there, and I had a single bed in the corner, with a chest of drawers and a mahogany, very nice mahogany dressing table which she brought at a sale, very nice that was, and a washstand like it.

So who slept where?

I slept in the corner, my little single bed and Grandma in her big brass bed and Auntie Ethelwin in the other room.
