Memory of playing in the barn during the 1950s.

‘Cos this looks so much different because when we were here it was a barn, I mean with real, real beams through and just a floor that you could see through, ‘cos we used to go up there and play.

Up into the loft?

Yeah, they used to keep a sword and dagger up there and we used to go up and play with those when we were children – well Granddad brought them back from the War didn’t he?
